

Media Advisory

---

Attention News Directors/Assignment Editors

SaskEnergy is warning its customers of a telemarketing scam occurring in various areas of the province.

SaskEnergy has received reports from several customers that they were contacted by phone and encouraged to purchase a device that the caller claims will help them save electricity or energy. The caller claimed to be a SaskEnergy representative. This is not a SaskEnergy offering. SaskEnergy does not contact customers by phone to promote or sell products, with the exception of conducting surveys for research purposes.

Anyone who has received calls of this nature should report the call to Phonebusters (the Canadian Anti-fraud Call Centre) at 1-888-495-8501. If a customer has provided personal financial information, including bank account or credit card information, over the phone, they should report the matter to their local police, as well as immediately contact their financial institution.

-30-

For more information, please contact:

Casey MacLeod
Senior Communications Officer
SaskEnergy
Ph: (306) 777-9722
Email: cmacleod@saskenergy.com