

Not everyone was able to make it to Calgary for the CFL Championship Final, but in the days leading up to the big game staff at SaskEnergy Place and the Regina Service Centre had a chance to hoist their own "Grey Cup"Cakes!

Volunteer employees went from floor to floor and door to door selling cupcakes and KidSport calendars in support of Jesse's Journey* and past employee of SaskEnergy, Mike McCullough.

Mike, who was a member of SaskEnergy's Corporate Affairs team, is a linebacker for the Saskatchewan Roughriders and an advocate for Jesse's Journey. Mike's first-born son, Cole, who suffered from Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy, passed away on February 15th, 2009, at the age of three.

"Now picture 40x this amount. That's a lot of cupcakes!" In support of Mike, each green frosted cupcake was decorated with his Jersey Number, #45.

Cupcake sales and additional donations generated a whopping $1,500. SaskEnergy also made a Health Match contribution of $500, for a total of $2,000 to be donated to Jesse's Journey.

The Grey CupCakes sellers would like to thank all of you for your generous contributions and support.

* Jesse's Journey is a charity that supports and raises money for research into gene and cell-based therapies for Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy. For more information on Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy and how you can help, please go to www.jessesjourney.com.
