

SaskEnergy sponsored a nail-biting race during the half-time show on October 24th. Two volunteer teams raced down Taylor Field on the unmistakable “Big Bike” in order to raise awareness for the Heart & Stroke Foundation and to help recognize the SaskEnergy sponsored volunteer drive for the 2010 IIHF World Junior Championships which are coming to Saskatchewan in December.

It was an incredibly close race, with one of the teams winning by a fraction of a second (literally)! The real winner of the event, however, was the Heart & Stroke Foundation who unveiled the final tally from the annual SaskEnergy Big Bike for Stroke campaign. In all, $359,000 was raised for the charity.

SaskEnergy is incredibly proud to be the title sponsor of the Heart & Stroke Foundation and the Champion of Volunteers for the 2010 IIHF World Junior Championships. As part of the job as title sponsor, SaskEnergy employees were on hand to help unveil the final amount of funds raised by the Heart & Stroke Foundation.

In addition to organizing the half-time show, SaskEnergy employee volunteers were also on hand to make sure that everyone sitting in The Zone were kept entertained between every whistle blow and touchdown. The Zone featured trivia contests and a costume for the best dressed fan at the game.

"SaskEnergy employees show their Rider Pride"